Acknowledgement

The present work would have been impossible without the limitless blessings of Almighty and my close association with many people who were always there when I needed them. I take this opportunity to acknowledge them and extend my sincere gratitude for helping me make this master’s thesis a possibility.

I thank the Almighty for giving me the strength and patience to work through all these years so that today I can stand proud with my head held high. After the Almighty, I would like to express the deepest gratitude to the person who made the biggest difference in my life, my major guide, Dr. Vivek Kumar Singh. He has been there, in front of my eyes for last two years, motivating and inspiring every bit of me towards new possibilities in life. He has been a living role model to me, taking up new challenges every day, tackling them with all his grit and determination and always thriving to come out victorious. It’s his vigor and hunger to perform in adverse situation, which has inspired me to thrive for excellence and nothing less. During my initial days in the department, I was apprehensive about my decision to join an alien field, where things were new to me. Dr. Singh came to my rescue with his intelligent ideas, thought provoking discussions and comprehensive understanding to help me sail through the initial fumbling. His attitude of living every moment as it comes, making serendipitous observation and converting them to new possibilities, correlating ideas and understanding the obvious has helped me come a long way and will always guide me in future. He made me realized what I had only heard, “When the going gets tough, the tough get going”. I will never find words to tell what I owe to him, and if I start doing it, I would not know where to stop!! Thanks for everything Sir. To me, professionally, you are “perfection personified”.

I express gratefulness and appreciation to my minor Guide, Dr. A. B. Odedara, Assistant Professor, Department of Veterinary Physiology and Biochemistry, for his scholastic guidance, keen interest, constant critical supervision, excellent cooperation and invaluable counsel throughout the pursuit of this study. His very cordial behavior would always remain beacon light for me in future also.

I take this opportunity in expressing my heartfelt thanks to members of my advisory committee Dr. R. J. Padodara, Assistant Professor and Head, Department of Veterinary Physiology and Biochemistry, and Dr. B. S. Mathapati Assistant Professor, Department of Veterinary Microbiology, for continuous motivation, indispensable support and counsel during the study, and their invaluable suggestions, which served as a constant source of inspiration throughout the course of my study and research work.
